2006 AMERICAN EAGLE
PLATINUM PROOF COINS

PLATINUM

Since their debut in 1997, the United States Mint's American Eagle Platinum Proof Coins have featured Lady Liberty on the obverse, a lasting symbol of vigilance and resolute faithfulness to duty. Designed and engraved by United States Mint Sculptor / Engraver John Mercanti, this depiction of famed French sculptor August Bartholdi's Lady Liberty perfectly captures the welcoming spirit of hope and optimism that has served as a beacon of freedom for more than 120 years.

She is joined in 2006 by the first of a three-year series of designs that will honor our Nation's three branches of government; the Legislative, Executive and Judicial. The reverse of the 2006 American Eagle Platinum Proof Coin features an allegorical depiction of the "Legislative Muse" as she inscribes the law, flanked by twin pillars representing the United States Senate and House of Representatives. An American eagle is perched atop each pillar, as if protecting the newly written law.

All American Eagle Platinum Proof Coins carry the "W" mint mark indicating their production at the United States Mint at West Point, and each is housed in a blue velvet presentation case accompanied by a certificate of authenticity from the United States Mint.

The inspiration for this year's reverse design can be seen above the door connecting National Statuary Hall to the Rotunda of the United States Capitol building in Washington, DC. This magnificent piece of sculpture is titled "The Car of History," and is the work of Italian sculptor Carlo Franzoni.

Commissioned for display in the original Hall of the House and completed in 1819, the statue features Clio, the Muse of History, standing inside a winged chariot, recording events as they happen. The winged chariot, which is symbolic of the passage of time, rests on a marble globe and features the face of a clock as its wheel.

The coining of platinum, one of the world's most brilliant and rare precious metals, requires excellence in both design and execution. The skilled craftsmen of the United States Mint have once again distinguished themselves as leaders in the field. The fruits of their labor are now available to discerning numismatists everywhere.

Note: The Executive branch will be honored on 2007 American Eagle Platinum Proof Coins, followed by the Judicial branch in 2008.
